SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

FULL DELEGATION FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY.

A Most Successful Convention Proving an Inspiration in Many Ways.

The Twelfth Annual Convention of the Adams County Sabbath School Association was held in Gettysburg last Thursday and Friday. The sessions were held in Christ Lutheran Church. The church was well filled at all of the day sessions and was packed at the evening sessions. Over two hundred delegates from all parts of the county were enrolled and they were delighted with the treatment received and with the meetings, the latter being highly inspirational.

The musical program was enjoyed by every one. The chautauqua choir of one hundred voices under the direction of I. L. Taylor sang at the evening meetings delighting every one. The permanent organization of this choir as proposed deserves enthusiastic encouragement. The delegates were received in autos and taken to the church, the owners of eleven autos donating their cars for the purpose. An attractive Souvenir Hand Book of the Association, printed at the Compiler plant was provided for the delegates, giving a list of officers of the association, Front Line, Star and Banner Schools, the committees, with program of the work of the convention. The Hand Book contained reports of President Rev. John Jay Hill, Secretary Miss Lily Dougherty, with list of all the schools belonging to the association, also report of Rev. John Daizell of the Home Department, of Marvin Wintrode, on Elementary Work and Cradle Rolls, of Prof. C. F. Sanders on Teacher Training Department and H. E. Bair on O. A. B. C. Department, concluding with report of the Treasurer, H. T. Weaver. The Hand Book contained pictures of the officials named.

Thursday Afternoon.

The twelfth annual Sabbath School convention of Adams county was called to order by the County President, Rev. J. J. Hill, of Littlestown, at 1:30 P. M., in Christ Lutheran Church, Gettysburg, Pa., Thursday afternoon, Sept. 28, 1911.

Prayers by Revs. Anstadt, Stockslager, Sherrick and Hill. Song by the convention, "The Hour of Prayer." Scripture lesson was read by Rev. Anstadt. Song, "Open Mine Eyes, That I May See." Responsive Readings and the Quiet Half Hour services closed by prayer by Rev. Stonebraker.

"The County Association Essentials," by Prof. C. F. Sanders. I am here to address the representatives of the various Sunday Schools in Adams County. We are working together for the accomplishment of certain ends. The first essential is an efficient President, and I believe we have one such at present. He is not only an efficient organizer but also an active leader and encourages all of his workers by his activities and presence at the various district meetings. The schools have real work to do. See that your secretary always answers letters that are addressed to your school.

"The Sunday School as a Sacred Trust" was the title of a paper read by Miss Floto.

"The Sunday School as a Creator of Ideals," was subject of talk by Rev. W. K. Fleck, saying among other things, "A man without an ideal is like a ship at sea without a compass. Christ came from the courts of heaven to give man higher ideals."

"The Sunday School as a Missionary Force," was discussed by Rev. C. W. Baker, saying, "We are living in a missionary age. We ought to go out and save the world in this generation, and it is not an impossible dream. The best place for a mission field is the place we are put. We must be missionaries from the ground up. The missionary man must be good and be able to do good. To do is exceedingly greater than to be."

Song, "Help Somebody To-Day."

"The Organized Adult Bible Class" was subject of address by W. D. Reel, State Field Worker. Some splendid man would teach a class of eight to twelve men in the old style Bible class years ago. The new movement of O. A. B. C. originated several years ago but it is not definitely known where. 3455 certificates have been registered in Pennsylvania. To obtain this certificate of recognition it is necessary to have the following officers, namely, President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and Teacher. Besides this it is necessary to have committees of Membership, Social and Devotional. He explained in detail the workings of each of these committees. We can't save the people unless we teach them, and we can't teach them unless we reach them. The best way to do this is through the O. A. B. C.

Song, "God Will Take Care of You."

"Graded Lessons," discussed by Miss Martha Robinson, State Field Worker. She outlined the various phases of this work and gave numerous illustrations of schools where they were now successfully used, and also displayed some of the text-books now in use in various parts of the State. The President appointed the following committees and requested them to report Friday afternoon:

Resolutions—Rev. W. E. Watkins, Rev. E. W. Stonebraker, C. B. Yohe, Mrs. E. E. Dietrich, Mrs. Maud C. Diehl.

Place of Entertainment—Mervin Wintrode, Miss Mary Floto, Miss Eme R. Hull, Chas. Bream, Mrs. Samuel Smith.

Nominating Committee—I. L. Taylor, G. H. Knouse, Mrs. J. W. McIlhenny, Miss Martha Yount, Miss Georgia Slagle.

Thursday Evening.

Thursday evening the song service was led by I. L. Taylor, followed by a selection from the "Rudisill Quartet." Devotional period was conducted by Rev. G. W. Sherrick, reading from Timothy, 2nd Chap.

Address, "The Elementary Vision and Opportunity," by Miss Martha Robinson, State Field Worker, of Bloomsburg. Statistics were given of various churches in the State showing the opportunity that is before the workers of the church. In childhood many impressions are made on the child's mind in the Sunday School which could not be made in the pastor's sermon. The speaker contrasted the Sunday School of 25 years ago to the Sunday School of today. One of the vital things in Sunday School work is to give the children the best kind of stories and use the graded lessons. The rooms where the primary children meet should be made very attractive and especially where schools are held in one room the primary children should be screened from the main school so as to have them give more attention to the teacher's story. Primary children should be properly classified so they may reverently honor the church. Every primary teacher should make careful preparation of the lesson, as this is their duty and responsibility.

Offering; singing, "Help Somebody To-day."

Address by Mr. O. P. Beckley of Harrisburg. The Sunday School of the future will be a greater power by using those powers that the attention of boys may be retained. The teacher training classes. Teachers should be trained that they may avoid the asking of the questions in the quarterly but be able to explain the lesson. (3) The O. A. B. C. class movement is a great factor in increasing the Sunday School attendance. This movement compels the teacher to be busy. Organization in Sunday School is one of the most essential features for progressive work. By organization definite work can be done. In order to do good Sunday School work we must put enthusiasm in our work. The Sunday School is a great heroic undertaking where it makes the lives of men and women. The Sunday School seeks the evangelization of the church for Jesus Christ.

Music.

Benediction by Rev. Daizell.

Friday Morning.

The convention was opened to order at 9 a. m. by the president. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. T. J. Barkley. The convention song, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and "Holy, Holy, Holy."

"How May the Order of Service be Made Most Effective," was discussed by Rev. J. B. Baker. First by making it more interesting. An interesting service is more inviting. Be ringing with song and toe opening services influence the whole hour. Begin with snap and keep moving. Be enthusiastic in the work. A good spiritual song service. Creation and redemption were begun by song and this is the way to begin the order of service and if possible led by a good orchestra and a good leader. Have a roll call of officers at the time of opening, also teachers and pastor. After this use the order of service, but use it irregularly or it will become a mere mechanical process.

The Limitations of the Sunday School, was subject of talk by Rev. F. C. Sternat. The purpose of the Sunday School is the teaching and studying of the Word of God and teaching the child. Is the training of the child to take place altogether in the Sunday School? No. The greater part of this work should be done in the home. It depends largely upon the mothers and fathers what the outcome of the future will be in regard to this work. The work of the school is limited and can never take the place of the true Christian home.

"The Glory Song," by the convention.

"The True Measure of Success in Sunday School Work," was pointed out by W. E. Watkins. The Sunday School has greater possibilities than any other institution at this present time. It deals mostly with the growing lives in the community. Seventy-five churches out of every one hundred that we have to-day sprung from Sunday Schools. Ninety-five per cent of the workers in the church are either now connected with the Sunday School or come out from them.

"The Ideal Sunday School" by W. D. Diehl, was discussed and then followed a general conference on the following questions:

1. How should officers and teachers be appointed?

2. How do you handle the supply teacher question?

3. How best teach temperance in the Sunday School?

4. What are advantages and disadvantages of class organization?

5. How do you dispose of the review Sunday?

6. What is the best way to secure trained teachers?

7. What is the best way to increase the regular weekly attendance and of offerings?

8. Can a school be successful without a teacher's meeting for the study of the lesson?

9. Should the Superintendent briefly summarize the lesson at the close of the Sunday School?

10. Should the pastor superintend the Sunday School? Teach a class?

11. What are the graded lessons? Where can they be had? How can they be introduced?

12. How can we induce the scholars to study their lessons before coming to Sunday School?

13. How may we increase mission interest in our Sunday Schools? Song, "Loyalty to Christ."

"The Sunday School Horizon" was the subject of address by Prof. M. Coover, D.D. Thirty-nine years ago the uniform lessons were adopted and so arranged that the Bible would be covered in six cycles. With the new series of graded lessons as are now being adopted by progressive Sunday Schools it takes seventeen years to cover the same work. One of the objections to this system is that it destroys the unity. After the opening services the different classes segregate into six different grades.

Friday Afternoon.

Session opened with song, "Help Somebody To-Day." Convention was then led in prayer by Rev. D. T. Koser of Arendtsville.

1st topic, The Book We Study, considered first, Character, by Rev. D. T. Koser.

2nd. As its Attractiveness, Rev. W. A. Korn, ...D.

3rd. As Literature, by Rev. T. C. Hesson.

Music, "As a Volunteer."

"The Vision for Leadership," was the theme of an address by Rev. F. E. Taylor, and "Teacher Training," by W. D. Reel.

At 3:30, Children's Half Hour, about 700 children marched into the church. "America" was sung; then Mr. Reel explained the Sunday School normal work or teacher training.

Friday Evening.

After the service of song by the choir of one hundred voices and devotional exercises conducted by Rev. G. W. Sherrick, an address was delivered by Dr. W. A. Granville, president of Gettysburg College on "Why the Forces that Work for Character Should Control the Forces that Work for Intelligence." The theme was inspirational developed with his well known clearness and forcefulness.

The message to the convention was an eloquent address by Rev. John E. Tuttle, D.D., pastor of First Presbyterian Church of York.

Cement Town Pavements.

For several years the Compiler has been urging the borough authorities to build cement pavements in the Diamond and they are soon to be a completed accomplishment. These pavements have been badly needed and with these pavements the town in the best shape the authorities have set the example and can consistently urge good pavements all over the town and every one knows they are badly needed in front of very many properties. They should also urge that all new pavements be cement.

The Town Council last week went over the bids that had been submitted for the building of cement pavements in the northwest and northeast sections of the Diamond and concluded not to give out the work under any of the bids offered but to do the work themselves. The engineer estimated that $501.75 would build the town's portion of pavement in the two sections. The Compiler's guess of the expenses of several years ago was close to the mark, $500 for half of the Diamond or $1000 for the whole four sections. With two built this year the remaining two should be built next year. The work will start at once. The town will build the bridge over the Tiber on West Middle street instead of letting the same.

L. M. Buehler Successful.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence L. M. Buehler the popular druggist has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. in making special half price introductory offer on the regular fifty cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles, that L. M. Buehler is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

Headaches, coated tongue, dizziness, gas on stomach, specks before the eyes, constipation, and all forms of liver and stomach trouble are soon cured by this scientific medicine.

HARVEST OF GRIM REAPER

PROMINENT YORK LAWYER AND MGR. OF YORK FAIR DIES.

Death of a Noble and Good Woman

Wife and Mother, Mrs. T. G.

Neely, of York Springs.

EDWARD CHAPIN, secretary of the York County Agricultural Society for 36 years and a prominent member of the York County Bar, died Sunday, Sept. 24, at the residence of his son-in-law Alexander McLean, in York. Death was caused by sarcoma of the bone, being a recurrence of the malady which led to the removal of Mr. Chapin's left arm last May in a Baltimore hospital.

For the past two weeks Mr. Chapin was confined to his bed with comparatively no hope of recovery. He was about 63 years old. Mr. Chapin was a native of York and was born September 5, 1848. For years he ... been identified with the York County Fair as secretary, and it was principally through his efforts and those

THE OCTOBER MAGAZINES

A WOMAN MAYOR SUCCESSFULLY RUNNING A KANSAS TOWN.

Organized Charity is Putting an End to Professional Beggar.

Kansas Town with a Woman Mayor

A Kansas town now has a woman mayor, a woman city marshal and a woman city clerk. The October WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION, in its "About People" department, says:

"If Chicago's motto is, 'I Will,' the motto of Kansas seems to be, 'Why Not?' For example, no other town had elected a woman to the mayoralty, but the voters of Hunnewell, Kansas, say in that no reason why they should not do so, especially if the woman happened to be the best man. And when they had chosen Mrs. Ella Wilson as mayor, she quickly justified their confidence in her vigor and independence. First Mrs. Wilson startled the community by appointing another woman. Mrs. Rosie E. Osborne, city marshal, with instructions to preserve order, to clean house, and to enforce the laws restricting the sale of liquor. Mrs. Osborne is six feet tall, weighs nearly two hundred and fifty pounds, and is said to fear neither man nor mouse. Mrs. Wilson also appointed Mrs. E. E. Hilton town clerk. Like many another reform mayor, Mrs. Wilson has found her city council in stubborn opposition to her every move; but she is very popular with a large element upon whose moral and political support she depends to enable her to make good the second half of her declaration that 'Hunnewell is no worse than a lot of other towns—but it is going to be better than most of them.' Mrs. Wilson owns a home in Hunnewell and several farms in Oklahoma and Kansas, and, as her husband is an invalid, has long been accustomed to manage her own affairs unassisted. She has two sons—one twenty, the other fourteen years old."

Things Organized Charity is Ending

Organized Charity was becoming an organized business. Charities organized in its own defense. In New York it was a wise woman who spoke the word. To the clear head and tender heart of Josephine Shaw Lowell her city will pay a debt of gratitude all its days. Upon her initiative the Charity Organization Society was founded in 1882, to prevent the overlapping of relief, and to "promote the general welfare of the poor by social and sanitary reforms." A single year's registration of 3,420 families that were tapping different relief sources discovered an able-bodied man hiding in three-fifths of them, hundreds living in plenty on the contributions of whole strings of societies, each of them believing the family its own particular charge. My back aches yet when I think of the Christmas eve trip I made to an old woman who lived alone in a hut at what is now the Ninth street entrance to Prospect Park, and was reputed to be very poor. I toiled up the long slope with a sack of provisions, to encounter at her door an emissary of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, similarly burdened. Our comparing notes did not help ease our backs, for we carried the things back where they had come from, but it resulted in the discovery that the woman had $1,500 in bank and was a preposterous old fraud. And there were many such. Several winters after that I contracted a habit of contributing a nickel on my way home from the office to another old creature who sat in Chatham Square churning a wretched pocket edition of a hand organ while she rocked a baby in her lap. It was always midnight when I came that way, and the baby appealed to me tremendously—especially when it snowed and the cold was bitter—until one night, as I dropped my nickel in her cup, the old woman lurched in the very act of mumbling her blessing upon me, and dropped the baby on the pavement. I picked it up, horrified, to find that it was a rag doll.—From "A Modern St. George," by Jacob A. Riis, in the October SCRIBNER.

Feeding Chewing Gum to Cannibals.

Though it seems rather a pity to shatter romantic illusions and myths in a world from which romance (of that kind, anyway) is fading rapidly, yet it must be said that there are only two old, useless rifles in the hands of the tribe, and, at the time of our visit, only two bows and a couple of quivers full of arrows, not one of which was headed. And now they haven't those, for we bought them for souvenirs.

Among themselves, at any rate, however they may have behaved to strangers in the past, the Seris were as kindly and even affectionate a lot of people as I have ever had the good fortune to encounter. Never did we see a mother or father slap a child. Never was anger displayed, or irritation. They were continually sharing with each other the little gifts we made them. Really, you know, when you see a group of alleged cannibals sharing chewing gum (the first they had ever tasted) from mouth to mouth, and enjoying themselves hugely, respect for travelers, tayles of blood and thunder goes down a peg or two. Michael Williams, in October OUTING.

South America. Several recent finds of jaw bones and portion of skeletons form the basis of the pen picture of these earliest men, as being under the average height, with slightly longer arms than man has nowadays, and that the thigh portion of the leg was proportionately longer than in any modern man. He had a low forehead, bleating brows and while the jaws as a whole were prominent the chin was retreating. Owing to the straightness of the backbone and the bend in the knees the body was probably carried with a slight forward stoop. Of this we are fairly certain.

A Famous Scandal in Baseball.

In "The Right and Wrong of Baseball," in "The American Magazine" for October, Hugh S. Fullerton tells of the ethics of the national game. Some things which might be considered unsportsmanlike in other sports are allowable in baseball, but there are some things which are beyond the pale. Mr. Fullerton writes:

"The New York American League club created a scandal only recently by stealing signals, using a rather clever device. There was a sign on the centre field fence and the letter H was movable, and behind the sign a man with field glasses signaled the batters by turning the bar. The scheme worked for a time—but such trickery cannot endure long. The man employed to steal the signals happened to be a friend of Hughie Jennings, and he had an intense desire for the Detroit team to win the championship. So when the "Tigers" visited New York, the man behind the wigwag system explained to Jennings saying the system would not be used to beat Detroit, but would be used against other teams. Instead of trying to profit by this favoritism, Jennings warned the Washington club and scattered the word through the American League. The result was the exposure of the stealing system and a scandal that resulted in orders forbidding any such trickery under penalty of expulsion from baseball."

A Child on Birds.

Mrs. Mabel Osgood Wright, author of "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife" telling in the October "Suburban Life" how to attract birds to one's garden, quotes a little girl's school composition as an instance of a common misapprehension concerning the food of birds. It read: "Birds are a small sort of chickens that live in little dolls' houses set on a pole, and eat crumbs if anybody gives them some. I don't know what becomes of them in winter, but I guess lots die. The happiest bird is a canary when its folks are good to it, and the cat can't get up stairs, which it mostly does."

Samuel Walter at Fairfield Station has improved his farm a great deal during the spring and summer, first by building a new addition to his house under the masterly skill of Mr. Lemuel Mickley of Orrtanna, who was the contractor, and second by making it still more attractive by having a yard fence built by Messrs. Harry Jacobs and Kemper, who are considered expert fence builders.

Mrs. Norman Bennett and Miss Lucy Gallagher made a business trip to Gettysburg recently.

Miss Maude Reed and Miss Louetta Sharett visited Miss Florence Carson at Waynesboro over Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Sanders visited their daughter, Mrs. Andy Weikert near Gettysburg, recently. W.H.

Hanging of Mrs. Surratt.

The October "McClures" contains among its contents the other articles of human interest:

Colonel Christian Rath, the man who had charge of the hanging of Mrs. Surratt and her companions, has broken his silence of over forty years, and is giving his account of the execution as he remembers it.

The story of how the people of Seattle dislodged a corrupt mayor by means of a new government device is told by Burton J. Hendrick, under the title of "The Recall in Seattle."

J. Adams Puffer, in "Boy Gangs and Boy Leaders," gives some tremendously interesting first-hand accounts of boy truants, boy runaways, and "bad boys" in general.

A. E. MacFarlane shows that New York City has placed two and one-half million people in the worst fire traps in the world.

Why Catch Cold.

It is usually the coward who catches cold. People who are afraid of fresh air and cold water are the ones who spend the winter sniffing and blowing their noses. Start now to harden yourself and by the time the wind begins to bite your cheeks you will be safe from colds.

Sleep with your windows wide open. If you feel chilly use more covers, but don't close the windows. When you rise in the morning take a cold bath. A shower is splendid if you have that luxury. Invalids, however, should see a physician before following the bath treatment. What is good for the well may not always be good for the sick.

When you rise in the morning take a cold bath. A shower is splendid if you have that luxury. Invalids, however, should see a physician before following the bath treatment. What is good for the well may not always be good for the sick.

Keep your feet dry and warm. Don't sit in draughts when you are overheated or tired. Avoid close and poorly ventilated rooms. When you leave a crowded church, theatre or moving picture show, start your blood moving by walking rapidly. As long as it is circulating briskly you need not fear catching cold. By starting the cold baths and open window treatment now your body will be hardened by the time winter sets in. And don't forget to take plenty of sleep—make sure of eight hours at least.

It was true. The young man had been presuming and officious. He had held up his hand, but he could not bear to be chidden, and now he stoutly defended himself, only making matters worse. Then another minister broke forth and berated Mr. Moody for his bluntness. The latter blushed, but listened until the reproof was done. Then he suggestively covered his face and spoke through his fingers, "Brethren, I admit the fault my friend charges me with; but, brethren, I did not hold up my hand!"

How Moody Got Out of It.

Many were the interesting experiences belonging to the first Northfield conference called by D. L. Moody.

One especially showed Mr. Moody himself in his varying phases.

It was the conversation hour at noon, and about 100 men were sitting under the tent on Round Top.

Mr. Moody, leaning sturdily against the tent pole, led the meeting. Suddenly there came from him the plump question, "Brethren, how many of you have so grown in grace that you can bear to have your faults told?"

Many hands went up. Quick as a flash, but neither sharply nor insultingly, Mr. Moody turned to a young minister and said:

"Brother, you have spoken thirteen times in twelve days here and perhaps shut out twelve other good men from speaking."

HOW to SAVE FEED for STOCK

Whether the price of feed is high or low, the wise feeder tries to prevent waste. But when feed is as scarce and consequently as high in price as it is now and will be this fall and winter, even the most wasteful feeder tries to economize.

U. S. STOCK FOOD TONIC

has proven to thousands of our progressive and up-to-date stockmen that it is a feed saver. Besides keeping animals healthy and free from worms, it causes them to digest and assimilate from 15 to 25 per cent, more of the feed they eat—in other words, by adding a little U. S. Stock Food Tonic to their regular feed, you can keep them in better condition and feed from 15 to 25 per cent, less feed than you are in the habit of feeding. A trial will prove it to you, and it costs but a cent a day for a horse or cow.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are inclined to know that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of women is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held in strict confidence, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

A Story of the Football Gridiron

By FRED L. YOUNG

One morning Elmer Ward, a freshman in Vernon college, was called up before the president, who thus addressed him:

"Mr. Ward, last night you were caught in one of those degradations which of late have been throwing discredit on the university. Peter Barber's grocery store was entered and liquors and cigars taken. Barber, who lives over his store, hearing a noise below, put his head out of the window and saw several young men running away. He recognized you as one of them. If you will give me the names of the others your punishment will be far lighter."

"Last night," replied the accused man, "I was in my room from 8 o'clock till 7 in the morning, never once leaving it."

"That you would undoubtedly be able to prove by your fellow students, but not to the satisfaction of the faculty. You may consider your connection with the college severed."

Elmer, after an interview with Barber, during which the latter maintained stoutly that he had seen the student running away from his store, saw no way to prove his innocence and, making a virtue of necessity, left the university. There was no legal prosecution for burglary since the matter was considered one of those indiscretions common among college students.

The hardest part of the young man's college leaving was saying goodbye to Della Trevor, the daughter of Professor Trevor. The two had been playmates, and Elmer had chosen Vernon college because she was there. They were neither of them quite of an age, certainly not in a position to pretend to any thing more than friendship, but there was an undercurrent of feeling that was liable to burst forth at any moment. This trouble which had overtaken the young man brought it all out. Together they talked over the situation as a matter of supreme interest to both, and the plan that Della proposed was carried out to the letter. It was in substance that Elmer should not be deprived of a college education. When he left this was not only understood between them, but that the current of their lives should be one.

Though Elmer had been in college but a few months, his expulsion was received by the students with marked disapprobation. The spirit of rebellion ran so high that the president was burned in effigy on the campus. The freshman was not only the most popular man in his class, but was looked up to as the athletic Moses who bid fair to lead his fellow students out of the wilderness of defeat in which they had been wandering for several years. He stood six feet two in his stockings and was a Hercules for strength. And now that he had been expelled the expectation of great things he would do for the college was crushed in the bud.

Interest in the annual football match for the next year died out, and it was supposed that Kendall university, which had downed Vernon so often, would do it again. And so it turned out, not only that year, but the next and the next.

When the autumn of the third year came around the Vernon undergraduate felt that something must be done to break this chain of defeats. A good man, Tom Muir, was selected for captain, and he worked hard to get together an efficient team. He succeeded far better than was to have been hoped; but, after all, the team as a whole was too light.

Muir during the early part of October succeeded in replacing four players with better men and one of the freshmen in the scientific school was discovered to be not only very strong and very heavy, but remarkably quick. In this way Muir brought the team up to a state of efficiency that began to awaken an interest in the annual game. A week before it was to come off so great had been the change that the betting, which had been five to one on Kendall, became five to four on Vernon.

But alas for human hopes! One of Muir's best men was injured in practice so far as to be eliminated for that year at least from the team. Another crack player was taken ill. A third was called home on account of a family affliction. It was too late to replace these men with equally efficient ones even if it could have been done at all. The Vernon money was all up on the game and could not be withdrawn. All hope of breaking in upon the victories of Kendall was abandoned.

The day before the match Muir asserted that two of his substitutes had turned out to be stunners and he felt encouraged. Vernon plucked up courage. A more hopeful feeling was waxing when the very afternoon before the match, while practicing the man from the scientific school, who had been relied upon for the principal tackler and runner as well, emerged from a scrummage with a broken leg. That finished the rising anticipations of Vernon, and the game was given up for lost.

Nevertheless the next afternoon there was a big crowd on the oval to witness Vernon's defeat. Captain Muir was walking across the gridiron with his head hanging in despondency when a man stepped up to him and called for football and said:

"I'd like to be in this game."

"Do you know football?"

"Yes."

"You're big and strong enough apparently to do good work. It's pretty late, but I think I can take you out—if, if you're really in college, I never saw you before, and I can't accept you without proof that you're in college and not a professional."

"Go ask the registrar. He's over there in the west stand."

Muir did as was suggested, came back satisfied and accepted the newcomer, placing him in the position of right tackle.

This happened not ten minutes before the teams lined up. When the game began there were not a dozen persons on the ground that knew the Vernon team had got an accession. A man appeared in their line half a head above most of his fellows whom no one recognized. He attracted little attention, however, for every one knows that bigness is not the only faculty necessary to a great football player. Those most intimate with the personnel of the team noticed him as he took his position in the line and wondered where he had come from. Not one of them knew him. A member of the senior class said that his face was familiar to him, but he couldn't place him. Some felt a suspicion that he was a semiprofessional who had been shoved through the exams for some special course for this special occasion. But even if there had been time for this supposition to take root the unimpeachable character of Captain Muir would have prevented.

The game commenced with the bursting of two wedges. The newcomer was seen in the center of the Vernon wedge apparently dragging half a dozen men with him as he advanced at a small's pace. Then when the game became more open every one was surprised at the elasticity of his great body and his remarkable quickness.

The end of the first half is an interval of importance in football. Up to that point the game is developing. The comparative ability of the teams and of the individual players is being noted. No great interchange of views among those present is taking place. Every one is intent on the game, looking especially for scores. But the moment the half is ended there is a hubbub as to what has taken place. One team or the other is marked for the better one. Some one player has shown especial ability as a tackler, a passer of the ball or a runner. One of whom great things was expected has failed lamentably. In this Vernon-Kendall match when the teams had lined up for the kick off a few bets were being made of 5 to 1 on Kendall. When they broke their formations, though Kendall had scored once and Vernon not at all, Vernon backers offered even money on their team. There being no takers, odds were given.

This change of feeling had been brought about mainly by the big man who had come into the game at the last moment. Twice by his own effort he had got the ball within six yards of goal, but for want of support had lost the ground he had gained. Once he had by a quick move got on the enemy's right and could have carried it to goal but for the same reason—the failure of his team to assist him. And now no one knew what he might succeed in doing unaided in the second half. Bettors are timid, and many bet on hedge.

As soon as the second half opened this change in sentiment became a revolution. The new man entered the field as if the fate of Vernon depended on him. He had been seen during the interval to speak to one of the most popular young ladies belonging to the college coterie. She had smiled upon him, and when he had left her he had walked back on to the gridiron with a determination in his face and in his very gait that brooked no good to the Kendall team. And now that the game had recommenced—more open than before—his great frame was seen fitting about like a featherweight. Within ten minutes he had run through a succession of tacklers, dodging and ducking, finally carrying the ball to a touchdown. Later while on the extreme right the ball was passed to him, and he made one of those famous runs with it to goal that never fail to electrify spectators. His last feat was to carry half a dozen men who were clinging to him and the ball as well for five yards and plant it over the line.

The half ended with this feat, while Vernon rooters went wild with shouting. Their college had won and had won through the personal effort of one man.

The moment the game was ended he left the field.

The next morning in chapel the president made the following announcement:

"Three years ago a great injustice was done a student of this university. Elmer Ward, a member of the present senior class, after being in college but a few months, was expelled for entering a store and taking away supplies. Recently a man who much resembled Ward has been convicted of another offense and confessed that Ward had been mistaken for him. The party that entered the store were not students, as was supposed. Mr. Ward, who has continued his studies with tutors, has been again received among us and will henceforth be considered a member of this class."

Then it was known that Ward and the football hero were the same person. It was also soon known that he was the betrothed of Miss Trevor and that she had inspired him to gain a victory for his alma mater.

Nevertheless the next afternoon there was a big crowd on the oval to

GREAT DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

The primary of last Saturday was one of the greatest demonstrations of the expression of the will of the Democratic people of the county that ever took place in Old Adams. Think of it over 3100 Democrats went to the polls and registered their choice for a county ticket. In many an off year a thousand less have voted on election day. The ticket named by the majority sentiment of 3100 minds is the ticket of the people and every one of these 3100 voters owes it to the ticket nominated to come to the polls in November and give it his hearty support and vote. And these 3100 voters should see to it that the 1000 or more Democratic voters who did not get to the primary get out to the election. A ticket named by three-fourths of the Democratic vote is an inspiration and at once commands the respect and support of all Democrats and good thinking people.

We believe right here in this county this demonstration of a ticket nominated by the people is strikingly in contrast with the party representing special privileges. For at least six of the county offices the Republican primary ticket contained but a single name. The powers that rule that party pulled off all aspirations, setting up a ticket that was not an expression of the Republican people but was believed by a few to have some hope for strength in possible outcomes of the Democratic primaries, and a ticket so nominated starts out handicapped alongside of one named by the people.

COUNTY COMMITTEE MEETING.

The Democratic County Committee men will meet at the Globe Hotel, Gettysburg, on Saturday, Oct. 14, for purpose of organizing for the short campaign ahead and to transact such other business as may come before it. Candidates nominated at recent primaries are requested to be present.

LIBERTY-BRUSH IS HERE

A Motor Car in Reach of Every Man $350

MOTORISTS everywhere have been talking about the remarkable Liberty-Brush automobile for $350. They have been wondering how it is possible to build a motor car for such a price. You have heard it discussed.

The Liberty-Brush is here in our store for your inspection—on the street for your trial. When you see it and ride in it you will wonder still more and your enthusiasm will be as great as ours. We want you to investigate the Liberty-Brush carefully, for it has established history in motordom since it was announced. Its appearance and performance are as wonderful as its price.

It is easy to examine the Liberty-Brush and we are glad to answer your questions. Ask us to tell about the Abernathy kids, ages 9 and 6, who drove a Brush from New York to Oklahoma City; or of R. F. D. Carrier Ingerson, who drove 25,000 miles at an average cost of 11-1/2 cents a mile. Or ask about the Brush economy contest in which the winner ran 100 miles for 39 cents and 98 of 109 cars ran for less than a dollar.

Let us explain how the United States Motor Company "cares for your car wherever you are." We represent the Liberty-Brush here and we want you to know it. We will call for you if you let us know your address and we can take you any place in our Liberty-Brush that any automobile can go.

SACHS—HARTZELL.—The lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hartzell was the scene of an unusually pretty wedding last Tuesday when their daughter, Miss Nora Olive Hartzell, was married to Luther Irvin Sachs of Waynesboro. The lawn was decorated with natural flowers. On either side of the aisle were roses, geraniums, salvias, petunias, twining clematis, both white and purple, presenting a beautiful appearance. The guests were grouped on either side of the aisle, down which the wedding party marched. As the wedding march was played, by Mrs. Harry Thomas, sister of the bride, the flower girls, Evelyn Thomas and Miriam Hartzell, nieces of the bride, appeared at the head of the wedding party, they wore dainty dresses of cream silk and were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Daisy Wentz. Mildred Hartzell the ring girl, also a niece of the bride. Miss Wentz wore pink messelaine and carried pink carnations; the ring bearer wore a dress of white embroidery. Next came the best man, R. Boyd Nell of Aiken, a classmate of the groom at Gettysburg College, followed by the bride with her father, who gave her away. She wore a gown of cream messelaine trimmed with lace and carried bride's roses. She is a member of St. James Lutheran church and also a member of the choir. The Rev. Jos. B. Baker performed the ceremony and between nature's green carpet and heaven's blue sky they were pronounced man and wife. The attendants were Miss Alma Sowers, cousin of the bride of McKnightstown, Hazel Thorn, also a member of the choir. Miss Elsie Smith and Elsie Swartz of Mt. Joy township. After an informal reception and luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Sachs left for Harrisburg. They were accompanied to Biglerville by Mr. J. I. Herster and wife and Mrs. Thomas, her sister, in his fine auto. They will return to Waynesboro where they will make their future home. The presents were many, both useful and handsome. The groom presented the bride with a handsome piano which will be shipped in a few days by Geo. Spangler. The day was enjoyed by all present, over one hundred having registered.

BOLLINGER—HENSEL.—At 7 a. m. on Wednesday, Sept. 27, Miss Blanche Hensel of near New Oxford and Roy Bollinger, were married by Rev. W. A. Korn of New Oxford. The bride is a daughter of William Hensel and the groom a son of Milton Bollinger.

We Recommend It

We find that somehow the Munsing Underwear pleases nearly everybody who gives it a trial. It's a common occurrence for customers to come in and give the exact style and size worn previously, and make some remark about how splendidly the garments fit, or how long they wear, or how much they give in the way of real service and satisfaction. Because of its unusual durability and washability, we believe it's the most economical underwear you can buy. We recommend Munsing Union Suits unreservedly. They come in every required style and size, and cost no more than suits that are not so comfortable and satisfactory.

Costs no more than other kinds. Suits and single pieces for the Child, the Misses, the Adult.

28 1-2 in. long. Second hand sugar barrels and smaller or "snide barrels" shall not be used.

Take out the bottom head, and stand the barrel with top head down so as to pack the top end first. A corrugated paper or some other cushion to protect the head layer should be laid in position, and on this placed a fancy paper cap. Pack the layer of "facers" stem ends down in circular rows, fitting tightly together. A second layer of apples of the same kinds is similarly placed in the depressions of the first. The facers are the same grade as the rest of the apples in the barrel, but are of the best colored. Over the facers pour gently a half bushel of apples at a time, shaking the barrel to settle the fruit. Fill the barrel to just above the ends of the staves facing the top layer stem ends up covering with a padded head to prevent crushing. Press down and drive the hoops into place and nail the head in.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Why not Cook with Gas

Don't you know your house would be many degrees cooler if you used a gas stove, and all the home people that much more comfortable.

Gas cooks faster than other fuel, hence less length of heat. A match gives the gas in full force, and cooking done, a turn of the knob removes the heat.

An economical use of gas will result in lower bills than paid for any other fuel and that means the saving of money, heat, fuel carrying and removal of ashes.

The Pure Bred Stallion
Creates Improvement

By D. O. THOMPSON,

Animal Husbandry Department, Purdue University Experiment Station

III.

THE terms descriptive of the breeding of horses are more or less well understood, nevertheless an exact understanding of their meaning is essential to an intelligent discussion of the horse breeding situation in the state.

The term "pure bred" is applied to the horse having sire and dam of the same breed and both eligible to registry in the books of the standard record or registry association. The horse thus bred is himself eligible to registry in the standard book.

The term "crossbred" is applied to a horse having sire and dam of pure breeding, but of different breeds. For example, the get of a pure bred Percheron stallion mated with a pure bred Shire mare is a crossbred and is not eligible to registry in either of the associations in which its sire and dam may be registered.

The term "grade" is applied to the get of a pure bred stallion mated with a mare of impure breeding. The filly produced from the mating of a mare of common or nondescript breeding with a pure bred stallion is a half blood; if she is mated in turn with a stallion of the same breed as her sire the offspring is a three-quarters blood. If this foal be a filly and she be mated with a pure bred stallion of the same breed as her sire the offspring is a seven-eighths blood. The result of the next top cross is a fifteenth sixteenths blood, etc. Although at the end of a series of years of top crossing the progeny will show many of the characters of the pure bred and carry but a trace of the blood of the common mare in the remote ancestry, nevertheless they are not eligible to registry in the books of the standard record associations in the United States, and the colts are not desirable for the stud because it is highly probable that if they were retained for service in the stud the foals sired by them will revert in some degree to the characters of the common mare in the ancestry.

The terms "mongrel" and "scrub" are used interchangeably to designate the breeding of the get of a stallion of impure breeding. When applied to the individuality of the animal they designate inferiority. Either of these terms also applies to the offspring of a pure bred mare got by a stallion of impure breeding. Mating a pure bred mare with anything but a pure bred stallion is not up grading; it is rather a step in the opposite direction, away from progress and improvement.

Standard Record Associations.

In times past and to some extent at present there have been companies and associations organized that supply pedigree registry certificates for animals not eligible to registry in the standard associations. They can do business because their identity is not known to the great majority of farmers who breed mares and to many of whom a certificate from one association

A GRADE GELDING.—The result of a dozen years of top crossing, a compliment to the pure bred stallion that sired him. Fortunately one of the few as good as himself not kept for the stud. Had he been retained as a stallion it is highly probable that the majority of his foals would receive from him some of the inferior characters of the common mare in his not very remote ancestry.

means as much as that from another. Prior to January 1, 1911, the department of agriculture gave official recognition to certain associations, but due to a new interpretation of the law this recognition was withdrawn on that date. On Jan. 1, 1911, the National Society of Record Associations, in which membership is limited to standard associations, was organized, and this association gives official recognition to the following horse registry associations, clubs and companies: Arabian Horse Club of America, Newburg, N. Y.; American Association of Importers and Breeders of Belgian Draft Horses, Wabash, Ind.; Cleveland Bay Society of America, Oconomowoc, Wis.; American Clydesdale association, Chicago, Ill.; French Coach Horse Society of America, Oak Park, Ill.; German, Hanoverian and Oldenburg Coach Horse Association of America, Lafayette, Ind.; American Hackney Horse society, New York; Percheron Society of America, Chicago, Ill.; American Shetland Pony club, Lafayette, Ind.; American Shire Horse association, Wenona, Ill.; American Suffolk Horse association, De Kalb, Ill.; National French Draft Horse association, Fairfield, Ia.; the Jockey club, New York; the Welsh Pony and Cob Society of America, Aurora, Ill.; American Trotting Register association, Chicago, Ill.; American Morgan Register association, Middlebury, Vt.; American Saddle Horse Breeders' association, Louisville, Ky., and American Breeders' Association of Jacks and Jennets, Columbia, Tenn.

The pedigree registry certificate shown as proof of the purity of breeding of any stallion should bear the exact name and seal of the association, club or company recognized by the National Association of Record Associations.

Improved Breeding Increases Selling Price.

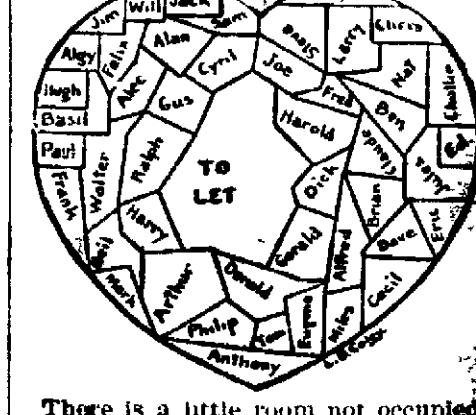

The get of pure bred stallions sell much more readily and at a higher price than the get of crossbred, grade or scrub stallions. About 95 per cent of 300 farmers in one state (Indiana) replied to a question on this point that the get of a pure bred stallion sold for much better prices than the foals sired by a grade. Investigations in other states in which exhaustive data have been gathered on this subject substantiate this belief. The pure bred stallion, owing to his stronger, more firmly established blood lines, is more prepotent than the stallion of impure breeding.

An Idle Idyl.

Day, like a butterfly,
Did flutter by
On sea breeze sigh,
And beneath the low hung moon
A slow young coon
Was wabbling nigh

Deserved Promotion.

"And so your husband is a white-washer?"

"Yes, indeed, and a fine whitewasher he is, too if I do mention it. And instead of whitewashing basements and fences around the village it is down in Washington he ought to be, a whitewashing of them statesmen that need it."

The Court Jester's Break.

"The king orders you executed at sunrise for offending the queen."
"But she wanted me to elope with her, and I refused."
"That's just it."

The Frog Bandit.

"Hands up! Let me have those blue bottle flies."

Privacy Invaded.

"Why, what's the matter, neighbor?"
"A beastly squirrel came along and ate us out of house and home."
